FIHE principal object for which this Company has been formed is to supply the city of Victoria, Kowloon and the Peak with the Electric | IGHT. A subsidiary object is the supply of electric motor power wherever it may be required, and negotiations are now being carried on with the Government to supply the necessary power for pumping water from the Albany Tank to a reservoir or tank to be established at the Peak The advantages of the ELECTRIC LIGHT are so well recognised that but little need be said on the subject It is, however, peculiarly adapted for use bere on account of its being almost entirely free from heat and unaffected by wind, and also on account of its almost perfect freedom from danger by fire. Estimates of working expenses, cost of supply, &c., have been carefully gone into. and the Directors have no doubt that the light can be supplied at rates which will compare favourably with the price paid for gas in the Colony, while for quality, power and convenience, the light will be much superior to any other kind of lighting.

In the estimates are included cost of sufficient engine power, plant, &c., for Electric Street lighting on the well known Arc System. Negotiations, with a good prospect of success, are being carried on with the Government for a contract for this purpose. A very suitable site for the Engine-house required for the Machinery has been pur-THE Eighth Ordinary Annual MEETING | chased and will be made over to the Company at cost price.

It is proposed to order from England at once the necessary plant and dynamos on the latest and most approved principle adopted in England and America. The London Electric Supply Company are at present engaged in installing in London a

The Income will of course depend much on the number of lights supplied, but as the price will be, light for light, less than s, there can be no doubt that the electric light will be generally adopted. If but 3,000 burners are made use of, it is believed that the Company will be able to pay a satisfactory dividend, and the dividend will increase with the increase in the demand for the light. The value of the shares has been fixed at $10 with the view of bringing the shares within the reach of all of the community who are likely to use the light, and who will thus have a better opportunity of becoming shareholders than if the shares were TIME above Steamer having arrived, of a higher value. HONGEONG, THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1889.

ANOTHER King has gone into exile. M. de Mayrens, a Frenchman who arrived here about two months ago with a flourish of trumpets, telling a story of adventures worthy almost of ranking with the 1001 in the Arabian Nights, quietly left Hongkong, we believe, by the Bayern, for Genoa, on Sunday morning, under the assumed name of Drey. A good deal has been written about this adventure, and now that the soi-disant king has left our shores, we do not wish to recupitulate 'the nasty bits' of the story. We need scarcely say that in publishing the revelations which put an end to his schemes in Hongkong we were actuated solely by a desire for the public interest. When M. de Mayrens arrived a representative of this journal interviewed him and seems to have been at European and native commerce. The very fact of his having offered $50,000 for the Filipinas, a steamer which would have been as much use to the savages in the Sedangs as blankets to the Hottentots, which sould never even reach the country unless it was transported overland, was enough to show his intentions were not serious. Then came the denouncing letters in Lo Courrier d'Haiphong, which showed clearly that M. de Meyrena had greatly exaggerated and considerably misrepresented the charactor of his adventures, that the Fathers, without whose influence the so-called King was powerless, repudiated him entirely and had only lent him assistance in This is a considerable deficit, and can only so far as they thought he was an envoy of be explained by the application of the cus-France. In these letters certain charges were made against M. de Mayrena, the works. There were less Chinese immimost serious, in our estimation, being that grated than in the preceding years. The he represented in a letter to one of the task-masters were often idle; and, gaining Fathers that he had had an interview with less money, they spent less. The only other way of reaching the country is via Bangkok, a long and dangerous road. There would also, besides, be the difficulty, even supposing Siam were to look favourably on the project, of communicating with the people without the aid of the French missionaries who understand the language. There can be no doubt also that the stories about the rich gold mines in the country have been enormously exaggerated. Before long we have no doubt either Siam or France will have extended their influence over the whole the tribes on the eastern banks of the Mekong up to the frontier of Burmah, or England wil have advanced further South along the Mekong valley and an arrangement will be come to between the three countries. Meantime for a Hongkong company to think of opening up trade with such an inaccessible country as the Sedangs is the most Quixotic project that has ever been mooted in verse. They all speak of straightened means, of suspended works, of decreased revenue, of languishing trade. The only great increase we observe in the tables of receipts is in the item of fines and confiscatious, which jumped from $22,571 in 1886 to $66,835 in 1887, the owners of the Decime and Lennox being the largest contributers to this branch of the revenue. In 1888 the Customs people were not quite so successful in mulcting shipowners, and only managed to grab about $30,000. But that they have not abandoned the policy of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs, on which all the principles of Government in Indo-Chica seem to be based, we have recently had abundant proof. That it may not be thought we are painting the state of affairs too darkly we will let the reports speak for themselves. 'The general situation is not so satisfactory as that of preceding years. An interesting query connected with the silk industry is discussed by the Takno Denipo. That journal, after pointing out that silk of good quality is produced in other countries, remarks how important it is to study whether Japanese silk can successfully compete with the same product of foreign countries. It had been p inted out by a gentleman connected with the industry that in this country one tan of sulberry trees produced, on the average, cocoons which yielded about 1,260 mom e (or 101 lbs.) of silk at a cost of about $31.12, including ground tax, the expenses of rearing the worms and manufacturing the silk. Calculating from that, the nett cost of a picul of silk would be $394.40, and then the expenses of transit to European markets, duty, freight, insurance, &c., would be about $45, so that Japanese silk might be sold at $439.40 per picul in European markets. On the other hand it was quite impossible to produce one kilo of silk in Europe at a less expense than 40 francs. Taking the French kilo at 268 moume and a franc at 25% cents, the cost of a picul of silk would be $611.32, showing an advance of $171.92 on the price of Japanese silk. When Japanese silk was manufactured equal in quality to European there would not be much fear of competition.-Jupon Questio.

One step that we ought to have been able to chronicle to-day is the opening of the Upper Yangtzo to steamers; but this has again, apparently, been postponed indefinitely through the neglect and want of energy of the British Minister at Peking. As to material progress, something may be said on both sides as to the expenditure on gons and forts and ships. The trial of a 15-ton breechloader, which we lately recorded, shows how one at least of China's argenals is progressing; and it is abvious that money is not wasted on defensive works, for a country cannot advance internally as long it is not safe against attack; and of all countries China is least dangerous for offence. There was a somewhat remarkable complaint in the German Consul-General's trade report recently published, which tells us of another administrative innovation which will certainly not be generally decried. He tells his government that the business of the dealers in arms here had seriously fallen off, because the Chinese were no longer making their contracts through petty officials on the spot, but through their ministers in Europe direct with the manufacturers. There is a good deal in this. We have already noticed hat the young Emperor himself had mentioned his despatching and receiving telegrams, a very great innovation. All round us are proofs that China is indeed moving. slowly, cautiously, but certainly.
